In relation to the family expenses, the home utility bills and the cell phone bills for the mothers have been paid by Twin City Water Works. I will digress a little and tell you about the company. Twin City Water Works, Inc. was started as a non-profit corporation in 1972 to be the community culinary water system. It operated as a community water system until 1996 when it sold the distribution system to the Cities, but maintained the ownership of the wells and the water rights. It now sells bulk water to the towns (Hildale and Colorado City) and maintains the wells. The Towns operate and maintain the water system through individual customer revenues and buy bulk water from Twin City Water Works. The revenue to this company has been about $400,000 per year. Upon seeking counsel from Uncle Lyle, he directed me to continue the water company record keeping which Father was doing. In looking back over the expenses, about half of them have been for RJA home expenses. After counseling with Uncle Lyle, I have continued to pay some home expenses from the Twin City Water Works account such as home utilities (almost $4000 per month for the few months I have been here), mother's cell phones (about $200-300/month), car insurance (one policy contains about half home and half company vehicles, about $500 per month total), and a new van payment of $900 per month. Several home vehicles are owned and were paid for by the company. Father had told me, and Uncle Lyle had confirmed it, that Father did the payments from company funds with Uncle Fred's approval, and he had also checked with Uncle William. There were a lot of other purchases before which were made by the company, especially home improvements on the old RJA home. If we choose to not pay home expenses with company funds, the company has enough income through bulk water sales that we would need to find a way to somehow get the extra revenue funds forwarded to the storehouse. In addition, the Storehouse would need to help the household here at least on the Utilities portion. The company has never been audited. Up to this time, especially with the company covering some expenses, the family needs have been met financially, and I have been able to occasionally turn in to the storehouse a surplus from the income made by the working family members. I am seeking counsel on whether or not to continue paying some home bills from the company funds.
